THANK YOU

Dear, Chocolate Cupcake

If you have made it all the way here, I guess I have finally run out of places to hide behind clues, memories, and carefully planned messages. Six months doesn't sound like a very long time when you say it out loud, but somehow you've become a part of so many little corners of my life. Everything was not perfect every time but it mostly was for majority of times. There were beautiful days and difficult ones. But I don't think the difficult parts take away from what we have. If anything, they taught me that something can be worth holding onto even when it isn't always easy and I want to hold onto you as long as you allow me to. Maybe that's what these six months have been for me. A collection of little scenes I didn't know would become memories, little moments that probably looked ordinary when they happened but somehow became important later.

Thank you for being here.
Thank you for choosing to stay through all the weirdness, the laughter, the silence, the chaos, the late nights, the good days and especially the not-so-good ones.

I don't know what the next episode looks like.
But I know I'm glad you're in this one.

Happy six months, you.

P.S. I like you.

Yours
Strawberry Ice-cream

